TASK 1. Read the article about a young football player. For questions 11 to 18 choose A, B, or C.

Jeremy Banks

Jeremy Banks played football for his school team and also for his village club. He was an excellent player and hoped to play for his country one day. Then, at the age of 13, the doctor told him that his leg was broken in three places. "You should forget about playing ball games, but swimming will be good for your leg", the doctor said.

The footballer Tony veers read about Jeremy in the newspaper and decided to visit him in hospital. They spent a long time talking about football and Tony gave Jeremy three tickets for England's next match against Scotland.

Jeremy went to the game in London with his parents and was happy when England won. After the match, Tony invited them to a party with the England team. Jeremy enjoyed that most of all.

That was two years ago. Jeremy didn't listen to the doctor and eight months after that terrible day on the mountain, he was back on the football field. Six months later, he was playing matches again. Tony took the England manager to watch him play and he chose Jeremy for the national under-17s team. "I am so happy," said Jeremy. "I've always wanted to play for England. One day I'll be the best player in the team!"
